

Your Saver Choice Plus rate plan is frozen, but you have options

You are on one of our older time-of-use plans, Saver Choice Plus. As part of recent changes to rate plans, the Saver Choice Plus plan was retired, or “frozen,” and is not part of our updated rate plan menu. What does that mean for you?

You have options

You can stay on Saver Choice Plus as long as you'd like. Or you can select a new plan from our current rate plan options. The most similar plan to yours is Time-of-Use 4pm-7pm Weekdays with Demand Charge. See how they compare:

Saver Choice Plus

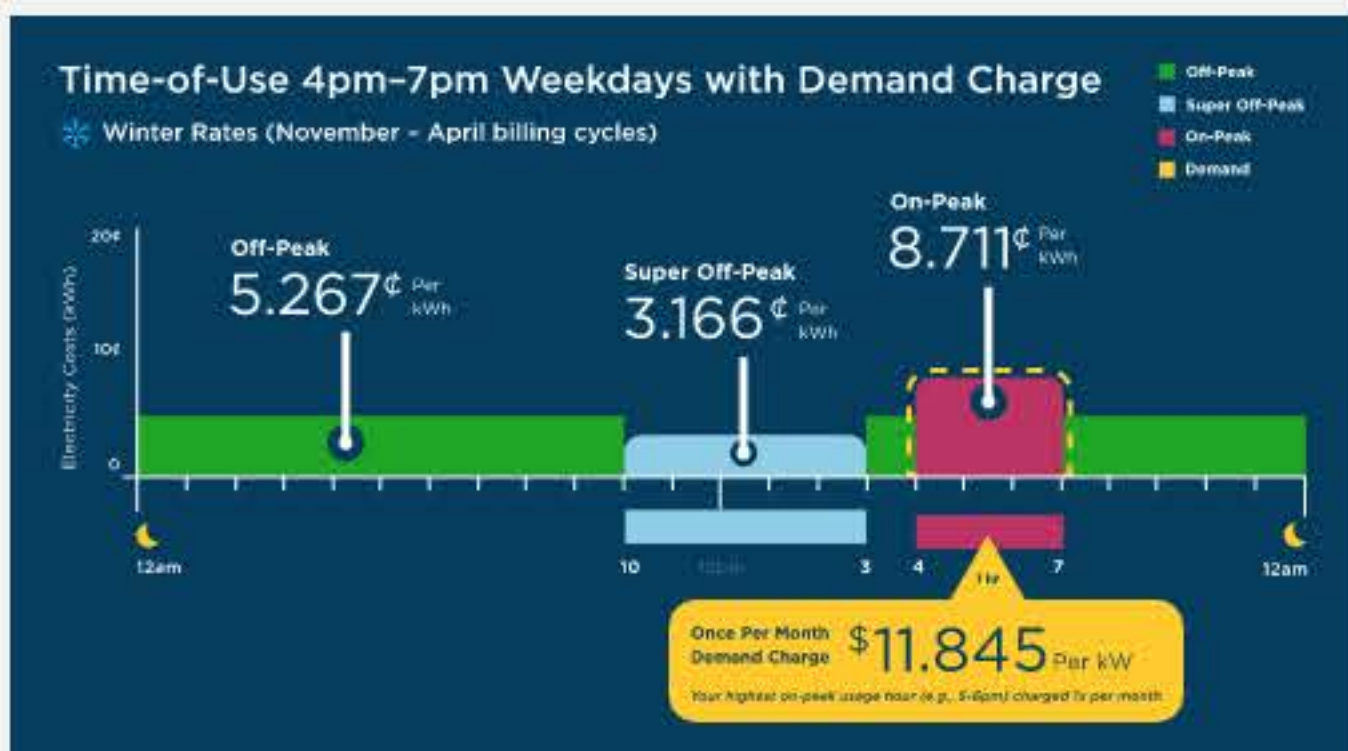

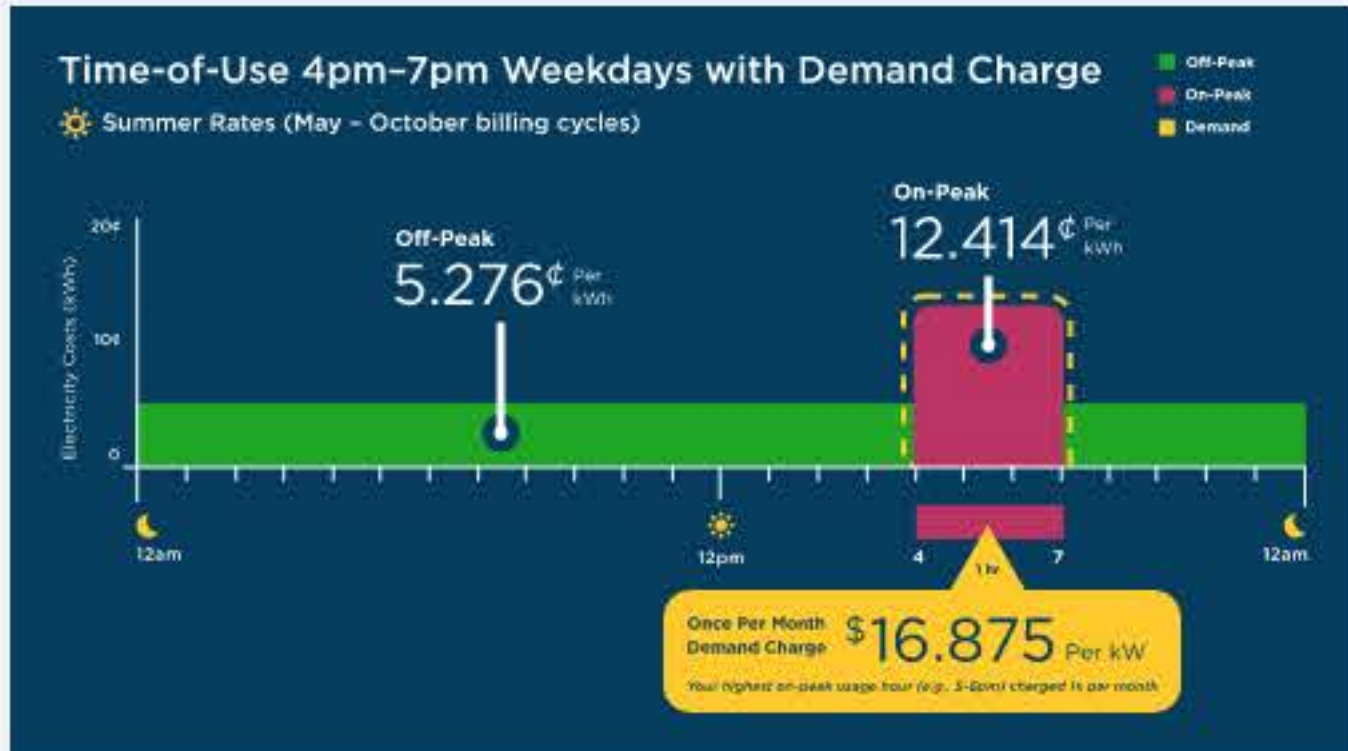

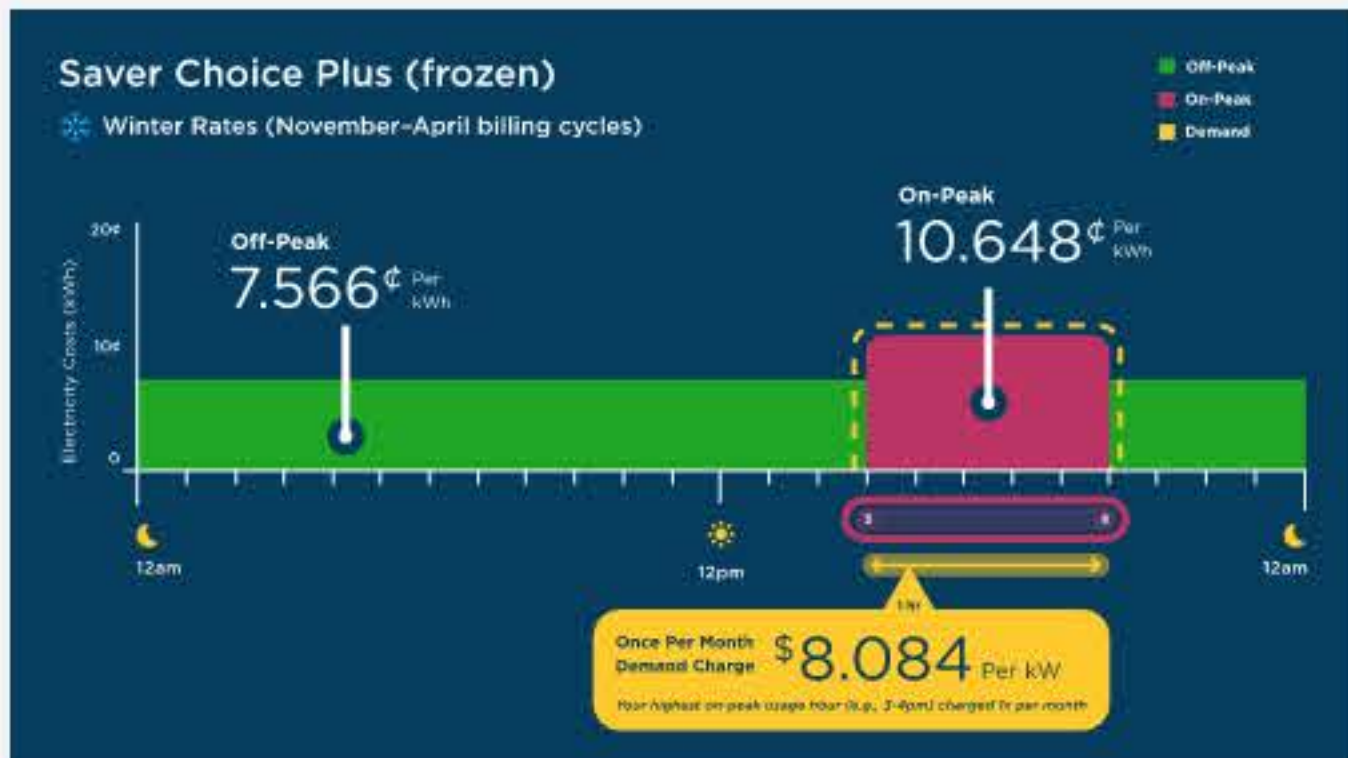

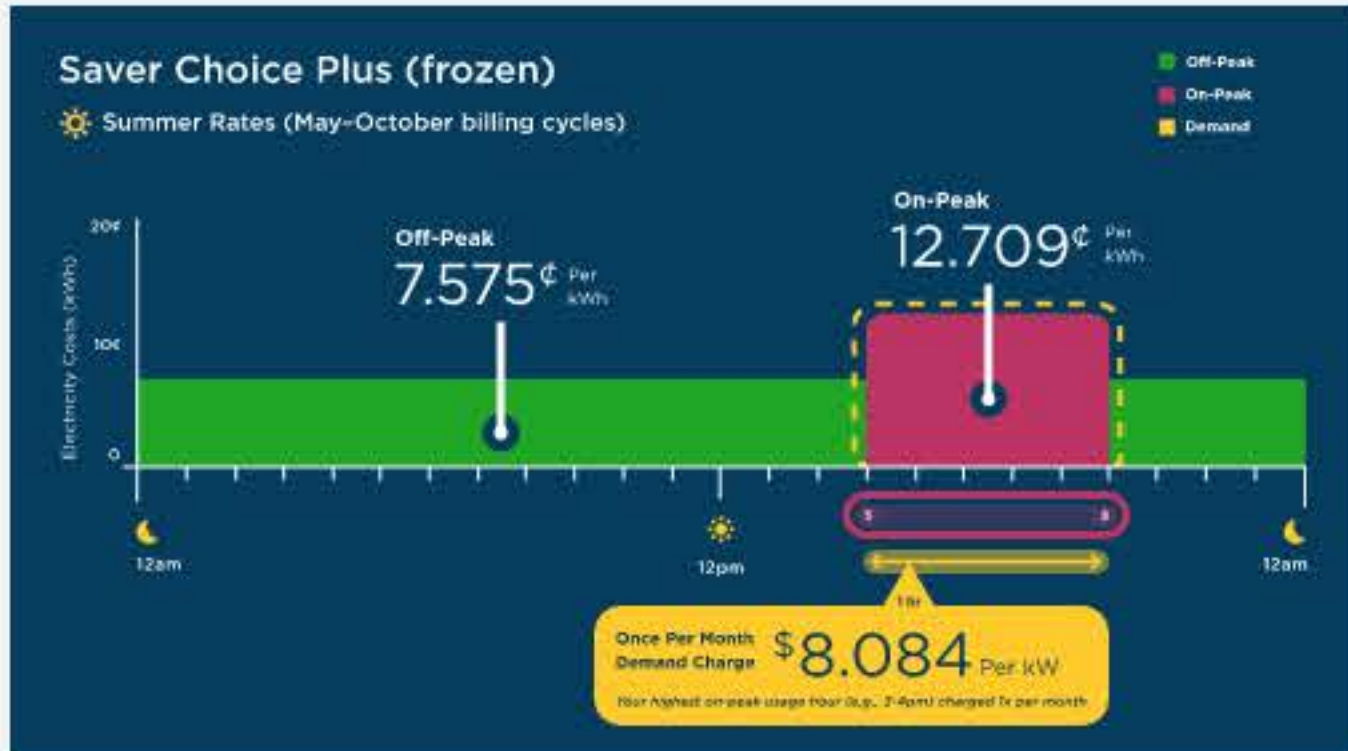

aps.com/saverchoiceplus

- Lower demand charge
- Higher energy charges
- On-peak hours: 3pm–8pm weekdays
- No winter super off-peak pricing
- Will not have access to the online rate comparison tool*

Time-of-Use 4pm–7pm Weekdays with Demand Charge

aps.com/demandplan

- Higher demand charge
- Lower energy charges and basic service charge
- On-peak hours: 4pm–7pm weekdays
- Winter super off-peak pricing 10am–3pm weekdays (Nov–Apr billing cycles)
- Will have access to the online rate comparison tool

Why was Saver Choice Plus retired?

Saver Choice Plus was one of two demand plan options. Our customers told us we had too many plans, so we simplified the options.

If you decide to change plans

If you choose to move to an updated rate plan, you will gain access to two helpful tools starting at least three months after you transition to your new plan:

- Information on your monthly bill about whether you could have saved on a different plan, based on your past energy usage
- If you register your account on aps.com, you can use our free online rate comparison tool to compare plans at any time
- If you change to another plan and want to switch again later, Saver Choice Plus will not be among the plans you may select going forward

*These tools are not available to Saver Choice Plus customers due to system limitations.
